

Leadership growth through group coaching, just-in-time training, and the power of connection.

Are you embarking on a new leadership role? Are you wanting to develop the skills and strategies to thrive in your new role? HALE (HigherEd Academic Leadership Exchange) can connect, support and transform your journey.

Navigating the complexities of leadership can be isolating, but HALE offers a mix of peer learning with just-in-time training under the guidance of experienced coaches and instructors.

"HALE is an exceptional small cohort program, thoughtfully designed by a select group of coaches and organizational development consultants. I would recommend it to faculty or staff who are actively seeking to build their skills in service to the academy, gain a network of collaborative partners along the way, and challenge themselves to grow both personally and professionally."

Laura Kinderman, Dean, Faculty of Business and Professional Studies, Capilano University

Join us for one of our upcoming HigherEd Academic Leadership Exchange programs to connect with peers and acquire the skills needed to thrive in your leadership role. Over five real-time sessions, we will cover essential topics like emotional agility, managing difficult conversations, influencing others, and leading change.

Questions? Email HALE at contactusHALE@gmail.com or visit: <https://bit.ly/HALEFall2024>

Our instructional design and facilitation team has over 25 years of experience in organizational development, human resources, coaching, teaching and experience in higher education.

Andrea Swanson
(MA, PCC)

Christine Costa
(B.Ed, MBA)

Lisa Sansom
(MBA, MAPP, PCC)